Local public transport services are a permanent feature of everyday life: transporting crude oil from one state to another . Our local public transport services, combines regional roots south sudan and east african countries and offers attractive, low-priced services. Won limited uses individual and high-quality solutions in order to offer attractive and cost-effective services to our clients and contracting authorities. An important module in our success story is the involvement of local partners.

We import and export cruied oil and oil services on scheduled and occasional routes in South Sudan, Sudan, Ethiopia, Uganda, Kenya Somalia and Congo We have also completely taken over the oil transport operations in three states and our clients will use these services daily. All our trucks have common features: whether a road unit, water – they are modern and equipped with all the necessary safety features.

Lubricants

A lubricant is a substance introduced to reduce friction between surfaces in mutual contact, which ultimately reduces the heat generated when the surfaces move. It may also have the function of transmitting forces, transporting foreign particles, or heating or cooling the surfaces. The property of reducing friction is known as lubricity.

In addition to industrial applications, lubricants are used for many other purposes. Other uses include cooking (oils and fats in use in frying pans, in baking to prevent food sticking), bio-medical applications on humans (e.g. lubricants for artificial joints), ultrasound examination, medical examinations, and the use of personal lubricant for sexual purposes.
